Game Halted in Tenth on Account of "Darkness" As Crowd Protests.

IRISH MEUSEL HITS HOMER WITH 2 ON

Yanks Fight Back Gamely And Catch Giants in Thrilling Battle.

By GRANTLAND RICE.
NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—World series baseball, that unlucky scion of trouble and gold, stepped in front of another young tornado today that came near leading to a wreck. The Giants and Yankees, fighting out their second battle, had just closed out the tenth inning with the score knotted 3 to 3. The minutes hand on the big clock in center field was burning words in minutes to the end of the game. There was a haze over the diamond but the sky above was cloudless. At this moment the two senior umpires, George Hildebrand and William J. Klem, ordered the announcement made that the game was called on account of darkness.

Crowd Roars Protest.
For perhaps a second or two the big crowd of 35,000 fans sat stunned. And then from almost every nook in the stands a terrific roar of protest swept back and forth across the field, followed by the prolonged howl of the raspberry chorus working at full blast. The excitement that followed hundred of enraged fans swept around Judge Keneaw Mountain Landis, while thousands of others began to pour a fusillade of abuse against the club owners who had no more to do with the decision than Babe Ruth or Klem Pasha. The two senior umpires, Klem and Hildebrand, had decided to call the game off at the tenth on account of the heavy haze which they claimed was obscuring the plate through the blur of the centerfield background.

The two umpires gave their decision courageously and honestly with no other hope of reward beyond an extra day's work without any extra emolument for the trouble they were taking on. The light was falling slowly but in our opinion another inning could have been played without any trouble. Due to the immense amount of money that has been paid in the past few years, it has been wiser to have let the game run out at least another chapter in the history of the series.

Feared Serious Trouble.
With unquestioned honesty the senior umpires thought that the combination of slow pitching and approaching twilight might run into serious trouble. The umpires had attempted to add another chapter to the series story. From their viewpoint psychology did not enter into the question of a baseball game. The umpires had full control of a crowd that has just paid out $120,000 to see a decisive result. If such is possible in any way. Those who sat in the bleachers where the light was falling slowly but in our opinion another inning could have been played without any trouble. Due to the immense amount of money that has been paid in the past few years, it has been wiser to have let the game run out at least another chapter in the history of the series.

Pitching Slows Up Game.
Before the umpires had opened the chorus of that ancient ballad, "Honey, Dear, Listen Here," the Giants and Yankees had fought out one of the most desperate contests of the year. The conflict was as slow as frozen molasses, but for the greater part of the game it carried its full share of quivering drama, sensational fielding, hard hitting and game, skillful pitching where a hit meant disaster.

Shawkey and Birmes, under heavy tension, pitched with cool, deliberate courage that at times was entirely too deliberate as the game dragged along through two hours and forty minutes of play. Shawkey, after a dominating blow from Irish Meusel in the first inning, rose to brilliant heights after the second inning when he checked the Giants with three widely scattered blows over the remainder of the way. But that one blow from Irish Meusel came near wrecking Shawkey beyond all repair. Groh and Frisch had just picked the Yankees for a second round, but when Meusel came up waving a big club in the golden air. The ball left Shawkey's right hand at good speed, but it left Meusel's bat at even greater pace, soaring far out into left over the brotherly dome of the other Meusel as it dropped into the left field seats for a clean home run. This prodigious punch scored three runs and left the Yankees cheering along the rooster's row gasping for air in the blistering heat that beat upon the scene. Meusel, only the day before, had driven over the winning run with Joe Bush in the way and once again it looked as if his mighty mace had decided the issue of battle beyond any lingering doubt.

Yanks Fight Back.
But the Yankees proved they could come from behind as well as the Giants. Shawkey, after slipping a strike in the second round, began to pump increased speed over the plate as he stopped the Giants in their tracks, held completely under the deadly spell of his speed, curves and control that sought out the corners and kept Giants' bats pok-

All Gate Money Of Added Game Going to Charity

Yankees and Giants' Owners and Players Answer Mob Protest.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The entire proceeds of Thursday's world series game, amounting to $120,554, will be turned over to charity. Commissioner Landis declared in a statement several hours after the game. This decision was reached at a meeting with representatives of the Giants and Yankees clubs, called because of a demonstration by fans against the club owners and players. The tenth inning of the game in the Polo Grounds. He coolly lit a cigarette and then read a prepared statement to the press. His statement follows:

"Under the baseball law, the umpires are charged with the sole authority of calling a game on account of darkness. In the exercise of this authority, today's game was called by them at the end of the tenth inning. Many of the spectators were of the opinion that the game might have continued. Of course, the umpires in the field are in a much better position to judge conditions and their effects upon play. But regardless of any question as to whether this decision was erroneous, the two New York clubs, acting for themselves and their teams decided, with the approval of the commissioner, that the entire receipts of today's game will be turned over to funds for the benefit of the disabled soldiers and to charities of New York City."

Judge Landis explained informally that the players' share of the proceeds is included in the money to be given to charity.

"How's your strike, Judge?" some one asked, referring to the game which the commissioner had laid about him when threatened with violence by the crowd. "For a moment I forgot that damn strike," Landis replied. "I nearly got stymied in the mob."

HARDING TO NAME COAL FACT FINDING COMMISSION TODAY

Willard and Spens Outline Plan to Accelerate Shipments.

President Harding expects to announce the personnel of the Coal Fact Finding Commission today. Meantime, Federal Fuel Distributor C. E. Spens has conferred with Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, and plans for stimulating the haviest possible movement of coal during the current month. The commission will be composed of seven members, nonpartisan with respect to the coal industry, and with the assistance of government officials.

What It Will Investigate.
The commission is directed to investigate and report on January 1, 1923, all those phases of the coal industry, such as overdevelopment of mine properties, intermittency of employment, wages, living standards, the like, which are held responsible for the sporadic strikes which have harassed the country so long. It is further directed to recommend the wisdom or expediency of nationalization of coal mines.

The plan for accelerating coal distribution, as formulated by Spens and Willard yesterday, provides the following recommendations:

1. Unload promptly all railroad material including railroad fuel.
2. Discontinue as far as possible all maintenance and reconstruction work requiring use of power and cars so as to turn this equipment into commercial service.
3. Use all available forces to clear yards and stations for delayed cars with a view to securing not only prompt unloading but prompt movement.
4. Continue a vigorous campaign to reduce to the minimum locomotive and car awaiting repairs.
5. Return foreign coal cars to owners or connections in home route with the greatest possible dispatch.
6. Loading of foreign coal cars in the direction of the mines should be confined so far as possible to through movement to points.
7. Conduct an active campaign to have all cars loaded to their safe carrying capacity.
8. Point out to operators that available coal equipment can be increased by avoidance of sales that require abnormally long distance movement.

INSISTS JAPANESE QUIT SAGHALEN

Japan must set a date for the withdrawal of her troops from the northern half of the island of Saghalen before the Chita government expects considerable difficulty before the island of Saghalen is evacuated, Skvirsky declared, and if it continues at the present rate, the mainland should be clear of Japanese soldiers by the end of this month.

This declaration was made today by Boris Skvirsky, spokesman of the delegation of the Far Eastern Republic to the United States. The Chita government expects considerable difficulty before the island of Saghalen is evacuated, Skvirsky declared, and if it continues at the present rate, the mainland should be clear of Japanese soldiers by the end of this month.

BANKERS URGE U. S. TO CHANGE FOREIGN POLICY

Think It Duty of Country to Go to Aid of Europe.

DISCUSS REDUCING ALLIES' WAR DEBTS

Government to Ignore Suggestions Pending Meeting With Britons.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The bankers of the United States have, by inference at least, declared against a policy of isolation toward Europe. They believe the time has come when the United States must assume a share of responsibility in helping Europe back to its feet through economic means.

This feeling was given expression in a series of important resolutions adopted by the 11,000 bankers at the convention of the American Bankers Association here today. These resolutions briefly declare:

- Sense of Resolutions.
1. That the administration consider the advisability of promptly making its representative on the reparations commission an official of that body.
 2. That Congress extend the powers of the debt funding commission so that it can negotiate more effectively with the foreign nations owing money to the United States.
 3. That President Harding use his new powers to readjust such use of the new tariff act in whatever way may be necessary for the restoration of international commerce.
 4. That the administration formulate the principles on which it can co-operate in rehabilitating Europe.

These resolutions were framed after speeches had been made by Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan and Company and other internationally known bankers urging that the United States go to the aid of Europe. There was much discussion around the convention of the necessity of reducing the allied debt, but the association hesitated formally to make any specific recommendation in this regard. It was emphasized, however, that the restrictions fixed on the debt funding commission by Congress be relaxed. These restrictions forbid the commission from wiping out any portion of the debt and require it to arrange for full repayment of all loans within twenty-five years. Lamont said that such a condition cannot be imposed for the reason that the European nations cannot pay within twenty-five years and some possibly not at all.

The report expressed strong opposition to the soldier bonus. It advocated the repeal of those sections of the shipping laws which "make it impossible for American ship owners to compete on an equal basis with other countries."

The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway was endorsed.

U. S. Silent on Policy Pending Conference

Administration officials made it clear today that the United States government will not give consideration to the suggestions of American bankers and commercial organizations for cancellation or modification of the allied debts, until the forthcoming conference is held by the debt funding commission with the British financial delegates late this month.

Officials have been officially informed that Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the British exchequer, will sail with the other representatives of the British government, October 12, for the conference of the British delegates with American debt funding commission will commence immediately after their arrival here.

It is confidently expected that the British debt, which will amount to at least $4,500,000,000 will be refunded. The United States will make no announcement of policy until after this conference is completed. Government officials have been officially informed that Sir Robert Horne, secretary of the Treasury, Mellon and Secretary of Commerce Hoover, are understood to favor modification of the American claims.

REPORTED SCHWAB CONTROLS MIDVALE

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Wall Street heard reports today that Charles M. Schwab had been controlling the controlling interest in Midvale Steel. Schwab was not in New York but in other quarters belief was expressed that the reports were basically correct. It is known that Schwab has been buying into the company. "It also was learned, Schwab has increased his stock holdings in Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company, in which he has long been the largest individual stockholder."

FOUR FIREMEN DIE AS FLOOR FALLS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—Four firemen were killed early today in a fire that swept a 6-story warehouse and factory building. A slight explosion which broke the glass in the front windows of the building injured several firemen. Four firemen on the fifth floor met death when the floor collapsed, burying them in the rubble. All attempts to rescue them were futile. The men were Frank Murray, Albert Fisher, Thomas Gilroy and Edward Paxson. The loss was estimated at $300,000.

SLAYER OF PASTOR AND SINGER KNOWN, AUTHORITIES SAY

Will Be Under Arrest Inside of 48 Hours, Prosecutor Intimates.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 5.—Strong intimations that the murderer of the Rev. Edward N. Hall, New Brunswick rector, and Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, his choir singer, would be under arrest, possibly within forty-eight hours, were made today at Middlesex County court house.

No indication was given as to where the hand of the law will fall, but Prosecutor Beckman was more laconic on other angles of the case and was free with the comment that witnesses so far have been untruthful and that "certain stories emanating from the Hall and Mills homes are fabrications of lies."

Another love message from Mrs. Mills to the rector, now in the hands of the public authorities, was made public. The only salient point in her statement, "I love you so." Another part read: "Oh, for the time when I can do your mending."

The autopsy on the body of the minister in King County morgue, Brooklyn, today, showed that he had been shot once, a .22-caliber bullet plunging through his right temple and out through the left side of his neck, indicating the slayer stood above the victim, and scratched knuckles and abrasions on other parts of the body gave some strength to the theory the minister fought for his life and was killed while fighting.

Had $40,000.
It was revealed here today that instead of the $10,000 previously reported, the Rev. Hall had securities easily converted into cash, worth $40,000 in his safety deposit box. Two witnesses are quoted as saying Mrs. Mills confided that the rector and she were ready to elope to Japan "as soon as she said the word."

These witnesses are Mrs. Elsie Barnhart, her sister, and another woman.

FIRE ALARM BRINGS ARREST OF WOMAN AS BOOTLEGGER

Four Stills, Two Barrels of Corn and 700 Gallons of Mash Confiscated.

A woman 45 years old was arrested on a charge of illegally possessing and manufacturing liquor. She was found in the Ninth precinct, arrived at the scene of the blaze he discovered that it was caused by two overheated gasoline stoves, each of which were operating a thirty-gallon capacity.

Four stills—two of thirty-gallon capacity and two of fifty-gallon capacity—were seized. These were results of an alarm of fire which was sounded when flames were seen bursting from the second floor of the dwelling at 820 L street northeast.

When Policeman R. L. Smith, of the Ninth precinct, arrived at the scene of the blaze he discovered that it was caused by two overheated gasoline stoves, each of which were operating a thirty-gallon capacity.

After the flames, which did damage estimated at $100, had been extinguished, Capt. Skoll, Lieut. Burlingame, Detectives Davis and Kueling and Privates Smith, Sirova, Speah and Lawson all of the Ninth Precinct searched the premises and arrested the sole occupant, Edna E. High, 45 years old.

The stills were dismantled and, along with two barrels of alleged corn whisky, were removed to the Ninth Precinct station in the patrol wagon, two trips being necessary. Mash amounting to 700 gallons was destroyed.

The high woman was later released under $3,000 bond to appear before United States Commissioner Hitt this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

MUDANIA PEACE PARLEY DEADLOCKED; TURKS ASK SEAT AT TABLE FOR REDS

GREEKS TO BLAME

Blocking of Negotiations Believed Due to Attitude Of Athens Envoy.

CONFERENCE ASKED IN SMYRNA OCT. 20

Kemal Desires Ukrainia, Russia, and Georgian Republic to Sit In.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 5.—Gen. Sir Charles Harrington, the British representative at the Mudania armistice conference, has returned here.

Following Gen. Harrington's return it was reported that the Mudania conference has been temporarily interrupted owing to the attitude of the Greek delegates, who insist that they must wait for further instructions from Athens.

Allied, Turk and Greek delegates to the Mudania conference have returned here and requested further instructions from their governments.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The Mudania armistice conference is deadlocked. This was revealed in a message (the contents of which have not yet arrived) which was received by the government from Gen. Harrington tonight. The cabinet has hastily called into a special meeting at 11 o'clock tonight to consider Gen. Harrington's message. The general asked for instructions. In reply he was told to remain in Constantinople from where his message was sent until instructions can be forwarded. The message said that the allied forces are expected to arrive by Friday at which time new orders will be given the general.

The Turkish nationalist government has proposed to the allied forces that a general Near East peace conference be held at Smyrna beginning October 20.

The Turks ask that Soviet Russia, Armenia, Georgia, Azerbaijan and the Georgian republic be asked to participate.

They promise to maintain peace in the Near East and agree to preserve the freedom of the Dardanelles.

This, in substance, is the reply made by the Ankara government to the recent peace note dispatched by the allied forces. A conference at Paris, it is learned, has been asked for a general peace conference and laid down the general terms on which the final peace settlement is to be based.

Two questions involved. In replying, the Ankara government has proposed that the allied forces be asked to evacuate Constantinople. The reply points out that the allied peace notes touches two questions—one military and one political. The military questions raised are being discussed now at the Mudania armistice conference, the Turkish point out. As to the political question, the Ankara government declares it is prepared to accept a general peace conference and conclude a treaty of peace with Greece and the allies.

The Ankara government says: "The participation of these states will help make the settlement more lasting and will avoid future causes of conflict."

There is no disagreement in principle regarding the evacuation of the Straits in order to secure the safety of Constantinople and the Sea of Marmara and safeguard minorities within limits that are compatible with the sovereignty of Turkey.
